'As a reader, I have have heard all too many times from clients, that they need a second opinion because the last reader they saw was insensitive or negative and left them feeling confused.

This is why I have chosen to teach; people are vulnerable when they are receiving a reading and it is crucial that a reader be sensitive and gentle in the delivery and also be well equipped with tools to present a reading that brings clarity and insight. I aim to pass on techniques that leave the client feeling empowered and inspired.. '
